DYKE ANIMALS

BY DYKE-DONKEY

HEY THERE!

These days when I see a 'zine' it's almost always a proffessionally bound collection of very polished art. Even lower-key ones are still high effort pieces on very shiny paper, and it felt like there were a lot of barriers to entry to be taken seriously in making money off of my art.

From being a furry comic archivalist, I've found zines from the 80s + 90s that are messy sketchbooks that look a lot like what I do. I've decided I don't need to be 'taken seriously' in this new age of art distribution - or at least that being taken seriously looks a lot different for me than it might for others.

Dyke Animals is a small collection of art that I take seriously, but not in the way I take work or comms seriously. These are collected from a lil' sketchbook I carry around all day, and it's mostly me putting to paper what's important to me in certain moments of my life. Most of the time that happens to be dykes.

I HOPE YOU ENJOY!
